

Invisible KILLERS

The truth about environmental genocide

INTERNATIONAL ENVIRONMENTAL TOXINS EXPERT, RIK J DEITSCH, VISITS AUSTRALIA IN AUGUST AND SEPTEMBER 2008 FOR THE AUSTRALIAN RELEASE OF HIS NEW BOOK "INVISIBLE KILLERS" AND TO PRESENT 8 EDUCATIONAL SEMINARS

Sydney, Australia – 19 August 2008

Rik Deitsch MS BS (chemist, nutritional biochemist, author, patent holder, public speaker and adjunct professor) is on his way to Australia from 30 August to 7 September 2008 for the Australian release of his new book, "Invisible KILLERS – The truth about environmental genocide"

Harmful toxins are present all around us. They're in the air we breathe, in the food we eat, and in the water we drink. What does this mean for our health and how can we protect our families?

Join international environmental toxins expert, Rik J. Deitsch, as he presents his new book, Invisible Killers, which educates readers about the very real dangers of environmental toxins

These toxins can build up in our bodies, causing disease and even death.

Mr. Deitsch will present eight (8) educational seminars throughout Australia. His seminar has been specifically tailored to Australians and the Australian environment where he will identify the problems and offer solutions that will help you reduce your toxic burden and live a healthier, longer life. He will also share vital information for ALL Australians including positive results from over 12 new clinical studies.

Rik has appeared on numerous radio & TV shows as an expert commentator & educator. He is passionate about the topic of toxicity and consistently makes himself available for media appearances.

His extensive knowledge, experience and technical ability is complemented by his affable, down to earth style, giving tremendous impact when presenting to either health & science professionals or the general public.

To arrange a media interview, book review, or to book a seat at one of the seminars, please call Glenn Bolton on 1300 652 366 or 0414 652 366 or visit www.RikDeitsch.com

EXCERPTS FROM THE BOOK

Toxins in our Water

There are an estimated 7 Million illnesses and 1000 deaths each year in the United States from waterborne microbes. Chlorinated chemicals in drinking water from pesticides, herbicides and refrigerants have been linked to increased risk of breast cancer. Cyanobacterial toxins in municipal water have been linked to illness and disease worldwide. Sewage treatment plant workers are at much higher risk of respiratory illness, skin rashes, headaches and body aches.

Toxins in our Air

There are now 1460 metric tons of airborne toxins that travel on the jet stream around the world. Because of this there is no place on the planet that can be considered a pristine environment. Facilities in the United States released 4.7 Billion pounds of toxins into the air in 2005– 72 Million pounds are known carcinogens. In 2005 the city of Chicago experienced 68 days when the air quality was too unhealthy for children, elderly and the ill. Coal-fired power plants spew sulfates, nitrates and mercury into the air. These compounds have been linked to more than 20,000 premature deaths each year.

Toxins in our Food

Environmental toxins work their way into the food chain. As of late 2005, 47 states have advisories to limit intake of freshwater fish due to mercury contamination. In 2005, the FDA reported finding chlorinated pesticides, like DDE (dichlorodiphenyldichloroethylene – a breakdown product of DDT), in 63% of foods surveyed. Pesticides and Herbicides in food have been linked to many cancers.
