

Invisible KILLERS

The truth about environmental genocide

The Medical Complications of Toxic Exposures and How to Become "People-Green"

STEWART LONKY MD TO VISIT AUSTRALIA IN NOVEMBER 2008 FOR A SERIES OF ENVIRONMENTAL TOXIN IMPACT SEMINARS TO HEALTH PROFESSIONALS AND GENERAL PUBLIC

Sydney, Australia – 1 November 2008

Dr Stewart Lonky is on his way to Australia to offer a series of open lectures to create awareness of the medical implications of environmental toxins.

Harmful toxins are present all around us. They're in the air we breathe, in the food we eat, and in the water we drink. What does this mean for our health and how can we protect our families?

These toxins can build up in our bodies, causing disease and even death.

Dr Lonky will present six (6) educational seminars throughout Australia. His seminar has been specifically tailored to Australians and the Australian environment where he will identify the problems and offer solutions that will help you reduce your toxic burden and live a healthier, longer life.

He will also share vital information for ALL Australians including results from over 12 new clinical studies and his personal experience with overcoming toxicity in his patients.

Dr Lonky is co-author of the new book - "Invisible KILLERS – The truth about environmental genocide" (www.invisiblekillers.com) written in partnership with Rik J Deitsch (www.rikdeitsch.com) who was also recently in Australia.

Dr Lonky has appeared on numerous radio & TV shows as an expert commentator & educator. He is passionate about the topic of toxicity and consistently makes himself available for media appearances and medical symposia.

His extensive knowledge and medical experience is complemented by his down to earth style, giving tremendous impact when presenting to either health & science professionals or the general public.

To arrange a media interview, book review, or book a seat at one of Dr Lonky's educational seminars, please call Glenn Bolton on 1300 652 366 or 0414 652 366 or visit www.RikDeitsch.com/news

ABOUT STEWART LONKY MD

Dr. Lonky is board certified in internal medicine, pulmonary and critical care medicine. As a National Institutes of Health post doctoral fellow and as a full-time faculty member at the University of California, San Diego he spearheaded a research team studying the cellular and biochemical mechanisms of lung injury. His practice involves the evaluation and treatment of patients with toxic exposures as well as patients with lung disease. In addition, he has served as the Chief Medical Officer for a diagnostic device company that developed technologies for the early diagnosis of certain epithelial cancers. His practice is located in Los Angeles, California.

EXCERPTS FROM THE INVISIBLE KILLERS BOOK

Toxins in our Water

There are an estimated 7 Million illnesses and 1000 deaths each year in the United States from waterborne microbes. Chlorinated chemicals in drinking water from pesticides, herbicides and refrigerants have been linked to increased risk of breast cancer. Cyanobacterial toxins in municipal water have been linked to illness and disease worldwide. Sewage treatment plant workers are at much higher risk of respiratory illness, skin rashes, headaches and body aches.

Toxins in our Air

There are now 1460 metric tons of airborne toxins that travel on the jet stream around the world. Because of this there is no place on the planet that can be considered a pristine environment. Facilities in the United States released 4.7 Billion pounds of toxins into the air in 2005– 72 Million pounds are known carcinogens. In 2005 the city of Chicago experienced 68 days when the air quality was too unhealthy for children, elderly and the ill. Coal-fired power plants spew sulfates, nitrates and mercury into the air. These compounds have been linked to more than 20,000 premature deaths each year.

Toxins in our Food

Environmental toxins work their way into the food chain. As of late 2005, 47 states have advisories to limit intake of freshwater fish due to mercury contamination. In 2005, the FDA reported finding chlorinated pesticides, like DDE (dichlorodiphenyldichloroethylene – a breakdown product of DDT), in 63% of foods surveyed. Pesticides and Herbicides in food have been linked to many cancers.

MORE INFORMATION

More information about Dr Stewart Lonky, his new book “Invisible Killers” and his Nationwide Educational Seminars can be obtained from www.RikDeitsch.com/news or by calling the Invisible Killers Hotline on 1300 652 366.

AUSTRALIAN MEDIA CONTACT

Glenn Bolton
Mob: 0414 652 366
Tel: 1300 652 366
Email: glenn@glennbolton.com
Web: www.rikdeitsch.com/news